- Luxembourg withholding tax at source
- Procedure to apply for an exemption from Luxembourg withholding tax

The information contained in this informative memorandum regarding certain Luxembourg tax considerations are based on the laws and interpretations in force in Luxembourg as of the date of this informative memorandum and are subject to any changes in laws or interpretations. The following summary does not intend to be a comprehensive description of all the tax considerations that may be relevant to a decision to purchase, hold or dispose of the shares in Aroundtown SA. It does not describe any tax consequences arising under the laws of any state or any taxing jurisdiction other than Luxembourg. Holders of shares in Aroundtown SA should consult their tax advisers as to the Luxembourg or any other tax consequences of the purchasing, holding or disposition of the shares in Aroundtown SA.

LUXEMBOURG WITHHOLDING TAX AT SOURCE

Dividends distributed by Aroundtown SA are, in principle, subject to withholding tax in Luxembourg at the rate of currently 15%, unless a reduced rate or exemption applies.

More precisely, an exemption from Luxembourg withholding tax may apply under Article 147 of the Luxembourg income tax law (“LIR”). Exemption or reduced withholding tax rate may be further available under the specific provisions of a double tax treaty (if any applicable).

1. Withholding tax exemption under Article 147 LIR

Article 147 LIR provides for an exemption from withholding tax if the conditions specified below are cumulatively met.

A. Condition linked to the shareholder

The shareholder must be:

- a) a collective entity covered by Article 2 of the European Council Directive 2011/96/EU on the common system of taxation applicable in the case of parent and subsidiary companies of different EU Member States as amended (the “EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive”); or
- b) a fully taxable corporation which is resident of Luxembourg and is not covered by Article 2 of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive; or
- c) the Luxembourg State, a Luxembourg municipality or union of municipalities or a Luxembourg public collective undertaking; or
- d) a permanent establishment of a collective entity of any of the three categories above; or

- e) a collective entity which is fully subject to a tax similar to the Luxembourg corporate income tax and which is resident in a country with which Luxembourg has concluded a double tax treaty, and the Luxembourg permanent establishment of such an entity; or
- f) a corporation which is resident of the Swiss Confederation and is subject to Swiss corporate income tax without being exempt; or
- g) a corporation or a cooperative company which is resident of a EEA (European Economic Area) country other than a EU Member State, and is fully subject to a tax similar to the Luxembourg corporate income tax; or
- h) a permanent establishment of a corporation or of a cooperative company which is resident in a EEA (European Economic Area) country other than a EU Member State.

Please note that an individual shareholder is not falling within the categories listed above.

B. Conditions linked to the shareholding

At the date when the dividends are put at its disposal, the shareholder must have held directly for an uninterrupted period of at least twelve months, a shareholding representing at least 10% of the share capital or having an acquisition cost of at least EUR 1,200,000 (or its equivalent amount in a foreign currency).

In practice, the acquisition cost of the shareholding in Aaroundtown SA must have remained equal or above EUR 1,200,000 (or its equivalent in a foreign currency) at all times during the twelve months period before the ex-dividend date. To ensure this criterion is met, shareholders may choose to place a number of shares in Aaroundtown SA with an acquisition cost of at least EUR 1,200,000 (or its equivalent in a foreign currency) on a separate account while trading freely with the remaining shares.

C. General anti-avoidance rule (“GAAR”)

As of 1 January 2016, Luxembourg introduced general anti-avoidance rule (“GAAR”) for the application of the Luxembourg participation exemption applicable to income allocated after 31st December 2015. The anti-abuse provision only applies to distributions falling within the scope of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive.

Accordingly, the exemption from Luxembourg dividend withholding tax to income (dividend) distributions to qualifying EU parent companies of a Luxembourg company, are not applicable if the income is allocated as part of “an arrangement or a series of arrangements which, having been put into place for the main purpose, or with one of the main purposes of obtaining a tax advantage that defeats the object or purpose of the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive, are not genuine having regard to all relevant facts and circumstances.”

In accordance with the EU Parent-Subsidiary Directive as amended, the Luxembourg income tax law continues by stating that “an arrangement, which may comprise more than one step or part, or a series of arrangements, shall be regarded as not genuine to the extent that they are not put into place for valid commercial reasons which reflect economic reality”.

2. Withholding tax exemption under a double tax treaty with Luxembourg

Certain double tax treaties with Luxembourg provide for an exemption from withholding tax if specific conditions, generally based on the status of the beneficiary of the dividends, are met (for example, certain eligible pension funds may, under certain conditions, apply for a withholding tax exemption).
