

Results and outlook in line; no dividends

- Solid operations overall: Aroundtown's results for FY 2022 came in somewhat above our estimates, with net rents of €1,221m (our estimate: €1,165m), adjusted EBITDA of €1,002m (our estimate: €935m) and funds from operations (FFO I) as adjusted net profit of €262.7m (our estimate: €351.6m). Aroundtown's guidance for FFO I was €350m-375m. Operationally, the company reported total lfl rental growth of 3.5%, with office rents up by 5.2%, residential rents up by 2.9%, hotel rents down by 0.1% and 0.2% lower occupancy levels for offices. The total vacancy rate in the office portfolio was 11.2% in December, 4.0% in residential and 3.9% for hotels (the company's three largest segments). The rent collection rate in the hotel portfolio reached 69% last year and the company expects an improvement to 85-90% in this year. The external appraisal for the full year of 2022 resulted in a devaluation of the total portfolio by 1.8%, split into a 3.5% fall for offices, a 1.4% reduction for hotels but a 0.4% rise in value for the residential portfolio. This translates into a reported adjusted net asset value per share of €9.30 (our estimate: €10.17).
- High liquidity maintained: Aroundtown's reported loan-to-value was 40% as of December 2022, with the outstanding perpetual hybrid bonds accounted partially as equity. If the perpetual hybrid bonds were accounted entirely as debt, the loan-to-value would be 55%. Aroundtown's interest cover reached 5.2x and the average debt maturity was about five years, with 1.4% as the average in-place cost of debt. Supported by property disposals of €1.6bn in 2022 (with an additional €150m signed in 2023) the company's reported liquidity reached €3.9bn in December. Still, given the uncertain capital markets environment, the company decided to suspend the dividend for FY 2022, which we already expected.
- Guidance achievable but not the main topic: For FY 2023, the company expects FFO I to reach €300m-330m, which compares with our estimate of €305.7m. While we would expect Aroundtown's operational development to remain broadly flat also this year, the share price is likely to remain weak and volatile if the company is not able to reduce its exposure to perpetual hybrid bonds, which for the time being cannot be predicted but looks very unlikely. Accordingly, we do not think the company will be resuming dividends payments anytime soon.

Investment thesis

- Aroundtown has focused on growing its commercial portfolio predominantly in regions with solid economic fundamentals.
- Rental levels are overall at affordable levels and the company has a strong track record in value creation by improving occupancy and rental levels.
- Aroundtown has always aimed for a reasonably low financial leverage, as reflected in its S&P credit rating of “BBB+”.
- Our valuation is based on return on net asset value, a discounted cash flow and a dividend discount model.

Key risks to our investment thesis

- Aroundtown has increased its non-German exposure and has been buying commercial properties in the Netherlands, as well as hotels in large European cities.
- Due to its exposure to hotel properties, Aroundtown had to grant rent deferrals during the pandemic.
- Increasing interest rates typically lead to the underperformance of property stocks.
